Pathways Introduction

Lon Garrison
Executive Director

Welcome to Pathways – The Long-Range Plan 2025-2028!

A hallmark of any successful organization is regularly assessing its performance against its strategic plan and preparing for the future. Astute organizations embrace strategic planning as an ongoing process to align their mission and vision with evolving needs. Pathways is our roadmap for the years ahead.

Since 1988, the AASB Board of Directors has undertaken this planning process every three years, embedding it into the association's culture. This approach ensures a continued focus on serving school boards and districts with the ultimate goal of improving student outcomes in Alaska's K-12 public education system.

In this latest iteration of Pathways, we remain committed to empowering boards and fostering strong partnerships, with thoughtful refinements to better serve Alaska's students. Goal #1 maintains its emphasis on culturally grounded educational systems, now with a more individualized approach to help every student achieve their life goals. Goal #2 continues to prioritize strong relationships among districts, boards, families, and communities, reinforcing our belief that these partnerships are key to creating the conditions for learning. Goal #3 has evolved to focus on sustaining AASB's mission through strategic partnerships, financial stability, and advocacy for locally governed public education centered on student achievement. These updates reflect our dedication to advancing equity and academic success while staying true to our core values and vision.

Through a continuous improvement model that reassesses our goals every three years, the Board and staff ensure that AASB remains forward-thinking and responsive. The 2025-2028 Pathways plan builds on the journey we began 36 years ago. As a living document, it charts a course for progress and adaptation, ensuring we meet the evolving needs of our members and Alaska's public education system. Together, through bold vision and commitment, we will continue shaping a future where every Alaska student has the opportunity to thrive - because their success is our mission, and the best is yet to come.
