

Directions in Life

By: Hunter Conn

My father, Josh Conn, has made a huge influence in my life. As a young child I never really got to see my father. In fact, my parents often tell me that due to my fathers job he was unable to meet me the first three months after my birth. My parents own a commercial fishing vessel called the Camelot. My first memories are on this vessel, and they are with my parents, and older brother and sister. I watched my father work hard and sometimes the only way for me to spend time with him was to work alongside him. As I grew I began to learn the importance of what it was to put food on the table and make a living. My father is by far the most influential person in my life. I have a very impactful relationship with all my family members, but my father and I have a special relationship. I feel that my father has made me who I am today and who I will be in the future. With dedication to his family and his lifestyle he has my respect and gratitude.

My father has taught me many things in life. Taking care of my family and my work ethic are the most important priorities in my life. Spending quality time with my family is one of the most important things in life. Followed by quality time is my work ethic. In order to take care of my family I need to be motivated to build a successful me. In order to build a successful me I need to find passion in what I am about to make a lifelong commitment in, and I have done so in diesel mechanics and industrial welding. Thank you for your consideration in being a part of my success.
